A Bright Newsy Letter By Our Correspondent

Many Social Gatherings And Other Happenings That Will Interest Our Readers.

Oct. 31.—Mr. Albert Hall, of Frankfort, is visiting relatives here this week.

Miss Lamelle Weatherbee, of Lyndon, was the week-end guest of Misses Weatherbee.

Mr. Edw. Fowler has moved into the Percy cottage.

Mr. Walter Roman and family have moved into the pretty new home near the electric depot.

Mrs. Will Rooksby was the guest of Mrs. Edw. Singer, of Anchorage, Monday.

Mrs. W. B. Blackwell and Miss Mary Blackwell spent Saturday visiting friends at Fisherville.

Miss Livia Orr, a charming young woman, of Brandenburg, is visiting Mrs. Chas. Weatherbee and other friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. James Urton spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Weatherbee.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones and son Roger Jones, Miss Carlyle and Miss West, of Louisville, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Jones Sunday.

There will be preaching at Pleasant Grove Baptist church the second Sunday by Rev. W. Powers, of Lexington.

Mrs. Sarah Johnson, of Mott, and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cline, of Brownboro, are visiting Mrs. L. T. Cline this week.

Misses Annie and Lizzie Urban were guests of the Misses Blackwell last week.

Mrs. Mason Gregg and little daughter, Pae, have returned to Louisville after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Arterburn.

Mrs. L. R. Brown is visiting Mrs. Kate Urton this week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Gansner were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. Malone of Crestwood, Sunday.

There was quarterly meeting at Anchorage Sunday, preaching by Rev. F. M. Thomas, threatening elder. Mr. Thomas has just returned from the great ecumenical conference held at Toronto, Canada.

Mr. Tom Singer and family have moved into the home of Julia Hall. We are glad to welcome them into our midst.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Tashell and little daughter, Mildred, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. McLean, of Pewee Valley, Sunday.

Miss Mamie Cline had a guests Sunday Miss Emma Cline, of Louisville, Miss Myrtle Johnson, of Mott, and Mr. Ben Vetter and wife Johnson.

The "young ladies" class of the Methodist church gave a Halloween party at the old Millington home. The young people were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Weatherbee and Miss Minnie Head. The old home was beautifully decorated in all kinds of faces, made from the pumpkin, which gave everything quite a ghost-like appearance. Of course, the young ladies all tried their fortunes by throwing the apple peeling over their shoulder, and many saw their future husband revealed in the glass. After many games were played, refreshments were served.

Mrs. Will Rooksby entertained at dinner Sunday. Covers were laid for the following: Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Singer, Misses Alice Singer, Pearl Rooksby, Laura Hall, Margaret Sumner, Messrs. Everett Brooks, Albert Hall and Morris Williams.

Mrs. Lon Durr entertained Sunday at a dinner party. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Durr, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Durr, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Durr and Thomas Durr.

Miss Jennie Lee Wood delightfully entertained last Thursday evening for her young friends. About twenty guests were present. Refreshments were served, after a splendid time playing games and pleasant conversation.

On Saturday evening friends gathered.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Roman a surprise miscellaneous shower at their new home. There was a good number present as it was a complete surprise and highly appreciated by Mr. and Mrs. Roman. The presents brought by the guests were beautiful and consisted of linens, silverware, a nice pair of blankets, pair of place curtains, glassware, granite, embroidery and fancy work, and other useful articles. Mrs. Williams and Mrs. E. T. Mitchell served lunch to the guests from a large punch bowl.

BUECHEL.

Happened From a Good Community and along the Central Lincoln Way.

Nov. 1.—The Misses Skiles entertained on Tuesday evening Miss Theresa Diemer, Katherine Galt, Louis Hooper, and Paul Powell.

Miss Anna Belle Diemer spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Louisville with Miss Elizabeth Pfeiffer.

Miss Gertrude Hikes entertained a number of friends on Saturday evening.

Misses Lillian and Virginia Hart spent Sunday in Louisville with the Misses Galt.

Emmet Weden left last week for Atlanta, where he will spend the winter.

J. W. Summers and Hugh Summers were in Cincinnati Wednesday and Thursday.

Miss Minnie Mitchell and Mr. Wm. B. Burwinkle were quietly married at the home of the bride in Louisville on Wednesday, October 25. Mr. and Mrs. Burwinkle left immediately for Cincinnati to spend several days.

Friends of Miss Gertrude Rhea will be interested to hear of her marriage to Mr. Paul Winn, of Horse Cave, Ky. Mr. and Mrs. Winn are now residing in Horse Cave, the former home of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox and niece, Miss Mittie Van de Vert, who spent the summer in Buchel and Fern Creek, left Thursday for Sherman, Texas, to spend the winter.

Miss Julia Hunsinger spent Saturday in Louisville.

The ice-cream social given by the Improvement League at the schoolhouse on Friday evening was quite a success. A large crowd was present and about twenty-five dollars was made.

An unusual large number attended the Rally Day exercises at Hikes schoolhouse Sunday afternoon. The Clifton Male Quartette rendered several beautiful songs and Bro. Walter Frazer and Bro. James McKittrick contributed to the program.

Messrs. Robert Elliott and George Roeder, both of Harrodsburg, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Kaiser and family Sunday.

The Misses Skiles entertained a number of relatives and friends the first of the week.

T. S. Skiles, Jr., bought of Miss Ella B. Crawford, five acres of ground in the six mile lane.

Al Kanizer was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Pratt Reynolds Sunday.

Mr. Albert Stieger is slightly improved at this writing.

Yoc Rololph is moving his cottage across the road near the Presbyterian church.

M. W. A.'s Good Work.

Buchel, Oct. 25.—Fifteen members (other representatives) of Buchel Camp, Modern Woodmen of America, met at the home of Neighbor J. H. Shiley, who has been crippled with rheumatism for six weeks, and dug and put away over sixty barrels of potatoes, besides cutting some corn and sorghum and sowing rye. This shows the fraternal spirit of this great society, which not only insures the life of its members, but helps the unfortunate ones.

Lunch was served by Mrs. J. H. Shiley, assisted by Mrs. Robt. Cook, and Mrs. Fred Ostreich. Messrs. Ransom Gallagher, George H. Frey, Edward Hinkle, John Hinkle, Sam A. Irvine, J. S. Hart, Wm. Hart, Chas. Kattan, George Porter, Otto Stivers, John Lannert and Mr. Bryant were present. Messrs. John Nogan, Dr. Abraham and F. O. Applegate sent men in their places. Some of the members have helped Mr. Shiley through his sickness. Among these Mr. Sam Irvine deserves special mention. Mr. Shiley is not able to work.

QUESTION

Arises Over When Jack Frost First Made His Appearance.

Our Seasonable Correspondent Writes Another Good Letter—Tribute to Mrs. Fannie Tucker.

Nov. 1.—Our worthy friend and mail carrier, Mr. Harry Knauer, thinks we were mistaken as to date of first frost last year, but in looking over the valuable paper called Farmers' Home Journal, we see that Louisville had its first frost on the morning of Oct. 23, 1910, and as we are only sixteen miles from the count home we feel that we were correct. The first one in 1909 was on Oct. 2, much earlier than 1910 and 11. We all dread to see Jack Frost, the leaves falling, the doors closed, and have to be like the bear—shut in for the winter.

Birthday Surprises.

Mr. Edw. Cole and sister, Mrs. Roscoe Stout, surprised their mother, Mrs. Sallie Cole, last Sunday by inviting a few friends and relations to celebrate her fifty-fifth birthday anniversary. Those who enjoyed this feast were Mr. John Bruce and family, Mrs. Malissa Turner, from Jeffersontown, Mr. Bob Hays and wife, Mr. Clarence Hays, wife and son, from Fairmont, and Miss Ruth Crockett, of Louisville. A delightful day was spent and they wish for Mrs. Cole many more happy birthdays.

Catch Large Fish.

Grandpa Lennell went fishing in Pond's Park near Stantonville one day last week and caught six nice black bass ranging in length from seven and one-half to thirteen and one-half inches. They were certainly nice ones.

Tribute To Good Woman.

Mr. Mitchell Bridwell and family, Mr. Frank Jean and family, Mrs. S. S. Jean and daughter, and Mr. K. S. Mills and wife attended the burial of Mrs. Fannie Stucky Tucker Sunday at the cemetery in Jeffersontown. Mrs. Tucker was born and reared on the farm now called "Gregg's Addition." She was always considered an excellent Christian character. She had been a sufferer for years and all was done for her that willing hands and loving hearts could do. She leaves a kind, loving husband, Mr. J. W. Tucker, who is well known around this town, having been born and reared near Tucker's Station; eight loving children, one of them, Louise, being a missionary to China. She also leaves two brothers, Dr. John Stucky, of Gosport, Ind., and Mr. Fred Stucky, of Jeffersontown, and one sister, Mrs. Sallie Cash, of Louisville, besides a host of other relatives and friends. Mr. Tucker and family certainly have the deepest sympathy of friends, and while they sorrow we are assured that if they do their Christian duty as she did they will meet again to live forever. She had expressed a desire to be buried in Jeffersontown Cemetery, and was buried in sight of her old home.

Mr. Clarence Omer and wife, Mr. Frank King and wife and Mr. Bailey Jones and wife spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Grant Simpson near Whitfield.

Mr. Foree Jean and family and Miss Minnie Jones went from church at Cedar Springs to dinner with Mr. Ora Yeager and family Sunday.

Miss Ethel Mills spent Friday night with her friend and schoolmate, Miss Levada Bogard, who teaches school near Fairmont, and boards with Mr. Carroll Smith. They were very pleasantly entertained by Mrs. Shiley.

Miss Levada and Miss Ethel spent Saturday night with her uncle, Dr. J. N. Turner, at Stantonville, and Miss Ethel with her uncle, G. S. Mills, on Preston street road. Both enjoyed their visits.

Miss Clara Bruce, Miss Ada Bishop, Jim Cook and Mr. — Cook dined with Miss Eunice Tyler Sunday.

Mr. Ed. Tyler and wife, of Middletown, spent Saturday night with his aunt, Mrs. John Phillips, and Sunday with his uncle, Mr. Joe Funk.

Mr. Roy Farmer and wife have moved to Mr. Jim Grant's home, near Cedar Springs. We are glad to have these young people near us, and hope they will be happy.

Mr. Will King and family and Miss Mayne Yeager are spending a few days with Mrs. King's father and mother, Mr. Lawrence Jones and family in Shelbyville.

Mrs. Clarence Omer was in Louisville Saturday.

Mr. Ed. Casey is on a business trip to Louisville.

Mr. Bruce Sewell has bought a piece of ground from Mr. George Bibb and is preparing to build a small house on it.

Our Dry Ridge correspondent is very liberal in expressing her opinion of our new school house, and what she said in reference to the electric car line to Taylorsville is also appreciated. Hope she will awaken an interest among the people and they will decide to do something.

Mr. Wallace Wheeler is in our neighborhood to oversee the work of erecting a monument to the memory of his father, mother, brothers and sisters, whose bodies are resting in the family burying ground on "Honestead Stock Farm," owned by Mr. K. S. Mills.

UP-TO-DATE

Community is Worthington Writes Correspondent—Many Newsy Items.

Worthington, Oct. 30.—Miss Kate Quinn is spending some time with friends and relatives in Louisville.

Mrs. R. L. Miller spent Wednesday with Mrs. H. R. Laird, of Springdale.

Miss Laura Mae Hardin is staying with Mrs. W. B. Tyler during the absence of Mr. Tyler, who is in New Mexico.

Misses Mabel and Leola Maddox spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Maddox in Springdale.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Schneidmiller and daughters, Virginia and Elizabeth, of Harrods Creek, were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Sims.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Tinsley and children and Miss Estelle Hess, of Louisville, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Maddox.

Rev. J. E. Kirk, of Louisville, spent the weekend the guest of friends here. He and Miss Annie Bright were entertained at supper Saturday evening by Mrs. R. L. Miller.

Mrs. Sims and son, Mr. Chas. Sims, spent several days last week with Mr. H. H. Sims and family.

Miss Laura Tyler entertained a number of friends at dinner Sunday.

Mrs. Laird, Mrs. Hahn, Mrs. Maddox, Misses Ouelida Nachand and Nettie Stutzenberger, of Springdale, Miss Kate Ray, of Florida Heights, and Misses Annie and Newton Miller, of this place, attended the Pres. Missionary Union held at the Bardeston Road Church, Louisville, Friday and enjoyed it very much.

Miss Newton Miller spent several days last week with Miss Mary Hoke, of Harrods Creek.

Rev. Harding filled his appointment at the Christian church Sunday and preached an excellent sermon to a large crowd. Rev. J. E. Thorrery also was present and made a short talk. It isn't often we have two preachers at one time, especially such good ones as these two. They with a number of other friends, were delightfully entertained at dinner by Misses Minnie and Mary Pounds.

The "letter from China" was certainly much enjoyed as well as the other news items in the paper last week. If A. B. C. would only give a more complete and definite description of the "lost, strayed or stolen," we could better know how to be on the lookout and succeed in getting the right one and claim the reward.

Chas. Main Bros., our progressive blacksmiths, are having electric lights installed in their shop. You see, we are not so far behind the times in this place, as the automobile A. B. C. writes so enthusiastically about starts at this place. We also have an up-to-date schoolhouse of two rooms with folding floors between, one to be proud of. Work was commenced on the well at the schoolhouse Friday. So, if anyone is looking for a place to live, just come here and inspect the store, drugstore, train, etc., and see if it isn't the right place.

A returned missionary from Brazil will preach at the Christian church Sunday morning and Sunday night will lecture and have stereoscopic views of the country and all kinds of things.

Goose Creek school will have a box party at their schoolhouse Friday, Nov. 3.

PRESBYTERY

Meets At Old Penn Run Presbyterian Church.

One of the Most Successful Gatherings of the Kind Ever Held at This Historic Old Church.

The fall meeting of the Louisville Presbytery met in the old Penn Run church October 26th at 2 p. m. Rev. L. H. Hudson, of Owensboro, the retiring Moderator, preached a splendid sermon on the mission of the church, after which Rear Admiral Watson was elected Moderator. The business session was held from 3 to 5 p. m. At night a popular meeting was held and Sunday-school work was discussed. Rev. T. N. Williams presided and after a few appropriate remarks on the occasion, introduced Rev. Mr. McCord, of Louisville, and he gave a very enjoyable address. He was followed by the Rev. Dr. Walton, of Louisville, who gave a most helpful and practical address on the Sunday-school work.

The Rev. Dr. Joplin, who travels in the interest of Sunday-school work, was present and gave a rare treat, which all certainly did enjoy.

Friday morning at 8 o'clock the Presbytery met in business session until 11 o'clock, at which time the Rev. Aquilla Webb, D. D., preached one of his magnificent sermons to a large and appreciative audience. At noon the ladies of the community spread one of the finest dinners ever served in Jefferson County. Three or four hundred people ate until they were in misery, and enough provisions were carried away in baskets to feed five hundred more. Why didn't you come?

At 2 p. m. Rev. R. Excell Frey, of Owensboro, preached a fine sermon; subject, "My Top Experiences." At the close of the sermon the Presbytery closed and the delegates went to Lexington to Synod.

Old Penn Run church was organized in 1766 and has had a wonderful career. The old church has been a very useful factor in Jefferson County and has sent out to other communities many useful men and women to edify and make better all with whom they have come in contact. It was remarked by many that this meeting of the Presbytery was the best one held for many years.

FERN CREEK.

Oct. 29.—Mr. Albert Ruckriegel and Mrs. Robert Ruckriegel were the guests of Miss Minnie Young last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Franklin entertained at dinner Sunday in honor of their daughter, Miss Carrie Bell. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Smith and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lydia Silvers and son, Mr. and Mrs. Minnie Franklin and son, of Louisville, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Nutter and children and Miss Esie Franklin.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Reid entertained Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cartwright at dinner Sunday.

Miss Margaret Williams spent Saturday and Sunday in Louisville, the guest of Miss Anna Neal.

Misses Julia Berry and Dore Parrott spent Sunday with Miss Florence Berry.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ruckriegel entertained Mr. Wm. Priest and Miss Minnie Young at dinner Sunday.

Mrs. J. B. Reid and daughter, Lizzie, spent Saturday in Louisville, the guests of Mrs. Sam Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Berry had as their guests Sunday Dr. J. E. Sealord and wife and Mr. and Mrs. Beanie Williams.

Mrs. Flora Miller entertained Sunday Misses Marguerite and Virginia McCullough and Abby Risinger; Messrs. Windel Smith and Verness Snarenberger.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Steinman and baby have returned to their home in Louisville after a five months' stay at Glen Cygnus.

Mr. Will Sullivan spent Sunday with his aunt in Louisville.

Mr. L. White, of Louisville, and Miss Minnie Dickel were the guests of Misses Lillie and Carrie McKenna Sunday.

LYNDON

Oct. 30.—Miss Alma Steadman, of Louisville, visited Miss Virginia Austin Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Shields had as their guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Edward Riggs and son, of Louisville.

Mrs. W. S. Duke and daughter, Margaret, were the week-end guests of Mrs. Nesbit Duke, of Louisville.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Kysar went to the celebration of Mr. John Kysar's birthday Sunday.

Mrs. Fred Hahn, Jr., and children spent the week-end with Mrs. Kate Winkler, of Hikes' Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Yager, of Middletown, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Orr.

Mrs. Bebie H. Austin is visiting relatives in Lagrange.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Kysar entertained at dinner Monday for Mr. John Kysar and Mr. Fred Martin, of Fern Creek.

Mrs. Fred Hahn and children and Miss Katie Winkler spent Thursday afternoon with Mrs. William Winkler.

Misses Louise and Mamie Hahn visited Miss Anna May Osburn, of Louisville, Sunday.

A nice crowd from the Eight Mile Baptist church attended the convention held at Jeffersontown Sunday.

SEATONVILLE.

Lovable Woman Runs Nail in Foot—Quite a Lot of News Told in Brief From a Hurling Neighborhood.

Seatonville, Oct. 30.—Dear Editor—We will thank you for a space in your paper and greatly appreciate your kindness if you'll publish these few lines. It truly makes us feel gloomy to think summer has vanished with all of its sublime beauty and winter will soon be here, but the time will seem much shorter waiting the arrival of the dear Jeffersonian.

Well After Terrible Suffering.

Miss Mamie Bridwell, one of our prettiest and brightest girls, is getting better rapidly, after suffering with a terrible bruise on her right hand. Dr. J. W. Turner and Dr. Wm. Rush were the attending physicians. After cutting the hand several times Miss Bridwell found relief. Her friends deeply sympathize with her and we all wish to see her out again soon.

Mrs. F. L. Jean is Improving.

Mrs. F. L. Jean, our lovable woman and friend, met with a serious accident by running a nail in her foot one day last week, but we are glad to hear she is some better.

New Neighbors.

We are glad to welcome our new neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Farmer and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Heid, in our midst. We wish them all success.

Corn 'O'possum Hunting.

Some of our industrious boys went 'possum hunting one night last week and caught one weighing twenty pounds. That sure is some 'possum isn't it?

Quite a number from this place attended the funeral of Mrs. John Tucker, which was held in Jefferson-town Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Dade Bridwell visited Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Francis recently.

Miss Ethel Mills, our lovable school teacher, spent Sunday and Monday with Miss Sarah Mills, of Louisville.

Mr. J. M. Bridwell was called to Louisville on business Friday.

Mr. Guy Mills made a flying trip to Mr. Washington Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Sue Bradbury spent one day last week with Mrs. Landrum.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Farmer visited a day and night with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bridwell, and family.

Miss Alene Stout, accompanied by her sister, was the pleasant guest of Mrs. M. Stout, of Fern Creek, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Casey, of Columbus, Ohio, have moved to Louisville to make their future home.

Hats and raps are all the talk of the young folks now days.

As there are so many interesting correspondents of the dear old Jeffersonian, the paper I love to read so well, I will ring off with best wishes to our dear editor and correspondents.

I remain,

PAPA'S PET.

Elaborate Birthday Party.

An elaborate birthday party and dance was given last Wednesday evening in honor of Mrs. Annie B. Kesten at her home in the highlands of Louisville. The spread was delicious and the artistic decorations were green and red. The many presents were beautiful as well as ornamental. The dance music was lovely and enjoyed beyond expectations. The following were present: Misses Mamie Dolle, Florence Sullivan, Rose Rawls, Ora Utusier, Emily Guetig, Louise Fancelli, Willie Groves, of Louisville; Misses Mamie Hotchell, Minnie Razer, Camille Fancelli, of Jefferson-town; Misses Georgia Groves, of Buchel; Mesdames Kate Root, Gertrude Stapp, M. Bachelor, N. Kremer, Mary Kesten, Maude Kesten, R. F. Groves, Annie B. Kesten, of Louisville; Mesdames Rosetta Gill, Elsie Fancelli, Emma Pounds, of Jefferson-town; Mesdames Lillie Groves, Mary Alley, Bettie Yeager, of Buchel; Messrs. R. F. Groves, William Kesten, Louise Kesten, Wm. Shames, Eugene Hammer, Louis Bott, Claude Pool, C. Ahlers, Michael Bush, Fred Stone, George Reamley, Henry Beckley, Hugh Groves, Earl Kesten, Herman A. Kester, Charles Andy, of Louisville; Messrs. Frank Fancelli, Enos Omer, Raymond Ellingsworth, of Jefferson-town; Messrs. James Alley, Buford Alley, William Groves, Sterling Stivers, Charles Yeager, George Yeager, Jr., of Buchel.

PREMIUMS

To Be Awarded at Annual Corn Show at Lexington.

Will Be Held at College of Agriculture January 2-5, 1912—Rules For Entering.

Following are the rules of the second annual corn show of the Kentucky Corn Growers' Association, which will be held at the College of Agriculture, Lexington, Ky., on January 2 to 5, 1912:

1. Entries close Saturday, December 31st.

2. All exhibitors must pay the Association membership fee of fifty cents which entitles them to all the benefits of the Association. No exemption is made for the Junior Department.

3. Exhibits may be retained by the owner, all return charges to be paid by the owner.

4. No exhibitor can make more than one entry in each class, but may enter in each class to which he is eligible. A separate sample must be provided for each class entered.

5. All corn exhibited must have been grown by the exhibitor in 1911.

6. In the yield and profit contests in the Junior Department the exhibitor must file certificate of two disinterested persons who measured the ground and weighed the corn. The certificate must be approved by the County School Superintendent or other person who may be in charge of the boys' corn club of the county. Contestants for the premiums for yield and profit must make an exhibit of 36 ears of corn grown in the contest corn. Less than one-half acre will not admit to this contest.

7. In making up the cost of production in the profit per acre contest, an itemized statement must be submitted showing all expenditures, the labor and materials used. Labor will be valued at 50c per day for boys and $1.00 per day for men. Horses will be credited at 50c. Manure will be valued at $1.00 per two-horse wagon load, on account of part of the value remaining in the soil. All fertilizers will be credited at full cost. The corn will be valued at the market price on December 1. This price will be furnished to exhibitors on request.

8. The yield is to be determined by the weight of ear corn when drawn from the field, using 70 lbs. to the bushel.

A complete list of rules will be issued with the final premium list. If you are interested, save your corn and write for complete premium list, and any other information desired. Score cards giving standards may be had on application.

Geo. Roberts, Secretary, Lexington, Ky.

For the purpose of creating more interest in the Corn Show, the State has been divided into three divisions in which premiums will be offered.

The First Division comprises Lewis, Rowan, Menifee, Powell, Estill, Jackson, Rockcastle, Laurel, White, and counties lying to the east.

The Second Division comprises Hardin, Letcher, Green, Metcalf, Monroe and all counties lying to the west.

The Third Division comprises all counties lying between the First and Second Divisions.

Premiums will be offered in each of the Divisions:

Class 1 Ten ears white dent corn.

Class 2 Ten ears yellow dent corn.

Class 3 Ten ears dent corn other than white or yellow.

Class 4 Single ear white dent corn.

Class 5 Single ear yellow dent corn.

Class 6 Single ear dent corn other than white or yellow.

Class 7 One half bushel (36 ears) dent corn any color.

Three or more premiums will be offered in each class.

The winners in each class in the different divisions will be brought together in competition for statesweepstakes. Liberal premiums will be provided. A number of valuable contributions have already been made.

Junior Department.

This department is for boys over ten years of age and under sixteen, who have grown the corn they propose to exhibit. All exhibitors must be members of the Association by paying the annual membership fee of fifty cents.

PREMIUM LIST

In each Division premiums will be offered as follows:

Class 1 Ten ears white dent corn.

Class 2 Ten ears yellow dent corn.

Class 3 Single ear white dent corn.

Class 4 Single ear yellow dent corn.

Class 5 One half bushel (36 ears)

dent corn any color.

Three or more premiums will be offered in each class.

The winners in each Division will be brought together in competition for State sweepstakes in the Junior Department.

Also in the Junior Department premiums will be offered for:

1. The highest yield per acre.

2. The best showing of profits per acre.

3. The best written history of the crop.

4. Best collection of five 10-ear exhibits by members of an organized boys' corn club.

Liberal premiums will be awarded in this department. The Louisville Commercial Club has donated $1000, a gentleman in Lexington who desires his name withheld has given $500; McKee Bros., Versailles, have given $25; besides numerous smaller gifts.

HEART-TO-HEART TALK

With The Readers of This Paper.

Now that the frost is on the pumpkin and the sheaves have been separated from the chaff—it is natural to suppose that you are thinking of the cold dreary winter that is approaching, and of course the advance of winter naturally suggests winter goods and winter wear for you and yours.

In Louisville, Ky., there is a store by the name of J. Bacon & Sons. This store has been in operation for the past sixty-six years and is probably the most widely known store in Kentucky today. In this store it is possible to buy everything you need, whether the need be personal or for the home.

This store being affiliated with the largest retail buying organization in the world, which is always ready with instant cash to pay for our purchases, and thereby take advantage of every discount, it can readily be seen that you can buy at this store for a great deal less than you are accustomed to paying.

In order to put the readers of this paper on the same basis as a home customer, J. Bacon & Sons will rebate 5 per cent. of your total purchases up to the amount of your railroad fare. Hence your trip will cost you nothing and the amount you will save on your purchases will fatten your bank account.

RALLY DAY.

At the Jefferson-town Methodist Sunday School Next Sunday—Interesting Program.

Next Sunday is Rally Day at the Jefferson-town Methodist Sunday-school and the officers and teachers desire a large attendance. All of the old members, as well as all members of the church and visitors, are cordially invited to attend. The services will begin at 9:45 a. m. sharp, as usual, when the regular lessons will be taught, after which a very interesting program will be rendered.

A feature of the program will be the enrollment of children upon the Cradle Roll. All parents who are members of the Methodist church, are requested to bring their children running in ages from birth to three years and enroll them on next Sunday. While the names are being placed upon the roll by Mrs. A. A. Bridwell, superintendent of that department, a lovely song, entitled "Bring the Little Ones to Jesus," will be sung by the school. As the superintendent is not in possession of the names of parents who have children of the Cradle Roll age, they are urged to come and bring their children without a written invitation.

There will be an address by the pastor, Rev. Virgil Elgin, and special music and responsive reading by the school. A roll call of the whole school will take place and all members are urged to be present and answer to their names. Misses Alice Smith and Louise Polk will sing a beautiful song, entitled "You Can Be a Better Helper," and Miss Helen Hummel will give a recitation entitled "The Book of Books."

An effort will be made to greatly increase the enrollment of the school, and while everybody, regardless of religious denomination, is invited all Methodists are urged to be present. Every body will be given a cordial welcome. Remember the time for beginning is Sunday morning at 9:45 and the services will continue until the program is completed. There will be no preaching services in the morning but the pastor will preach at night at the usual hour.

BELOVED WOMAN

Mrs. Fannie Tucker, one of County's Best Known Women, Passes Away in Louisville.

Mrs. Fannie Tucker, aged sixty-two years, wife of Mr. John W. Tucker, the well known quartermaster of Tucker's Station, passed away at her home in Louisville last Saturday morning at 2 o'clock, after an extended illness. She was a member of a pioneer family of Jefferson county and a widely known and beloved woman. The funeral was held at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Highland Baptist church in Louisville. The Rev. D. A. Daves, of Georgetown, former pastor of the church, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Paul J. Hagby, the present pastor. Burial was in the family lot in the cemetery in Jeffersonton.

Mrs. Tucker was born near Jeffersonton, and was a daughter of the late Frederick Stucky, who died in 1881 at the age of 91 years. She was a charter member of the Highland Baptist church. A daughter, Miss Louise Tucker, went to China a year ago as a Baptist missionary. She has been ill for some time, but a letter received from her several days ago stated that she was improved and did not anticipate any danger resulting from the revolution in China. Mrs. Tucker is survived by her husband and eight children, Mrs. C. E. Gould, Miss Louise Tucker, Miss Florence Tucker, Homer S. Tucker, Miss Gertrude Tucker, Miss Ruby Jane Tucker, Mrs. H. T. Grady and John W. Tucker, Jr., two brothers, Fred Stucky, of Jeffersonton, and Dr. J. M. Stucky, of Gosport, Ind., who is in his ninetieth year, and a sister, Mrs. Sallie Chad. She was a sister of Harry Stucky, eighty-two years of age, who died several months ago.

Successful Pie Supper.

The pie supper at Swamp College schoolhouse October 21st met with great success. Mr. Guy Mills, the auctioneer, carrying the delicious pies over the room, attracted all ears, but the moving figures upon the curtain had all the eyes. Pies on shadows sold well. The pie belonging to Miss Greathouse, of Louisville, brought $2.00, and many others were very costly pies. The cake for the most popular young lady was awarded to Miss Ethel Hummel of Jeffersonton, and the one for the handsomest young man went to Mr. Ed. Natter, who resides in the school district. The total sum realized was $30, which will go towards a library for the school. We thank every one who took a part in our good cause. Miss Mary Crutcher is the popular teacher of this school.

Forty Years Ago Last Month

The Chicago Fire gave The Home Insurance Co., New York, its first opportunity to show its quality in the face of Adversity. There have been other tests and trials since that time, all of which have been fully met, but none so severe in proportion to the resources of the company. One thought the anniversary suggests is: The Home paid $3,151,106 for conflagration losses in addition to the normal current claims of the year 1871, when the gross assets were $4,587,008, and the net surplus $128,914.

What may we expect now of this Company with assets of $30,178,914?

MILITARY ESCORT

Company A Will be President's Guard at Hodgenville During Dedication.

Robert C. Kinkead, chairman of the Lincoln Memorial Executive Committee, last Saturday received a letter from Gov. E. A. Wilson informing him that Company A, of the First Regiment, of which Neville Bullitt is Captain, will be assigned to military escort duty on the occasion of the Lincoln Memorial by President Taft November 9. It will be in command of Gen. Rodger Williams.

Secretary Miner, representing Robert J. Collier, who inaugurated the Lincoln Park movement, arrived yesterday and today, accompanied by Andrew Cowan, chairman of the general committee, and Robert Kinkead, chairman of the executive committee, will go to Hodgenville to make final arrangements there for the visit of the President.

To conduct the Presidential party from the President's special at Hodgenville to Lincoln Memorial Park, carriages and the finest teams available will be shipped to Hodgenville on the day preceding the dedication.

Will Test the Law.

To determine whether the Fiscal Court has the right to appropriate money to pay for services rendered by a substitute for an officer absent on the county pay roll a suit was filed in the Jefferson Circuit Court last Friday afternoon by Magistrates Dorsey and Hollis against the Fiscal Court, the magistrates composing the Fiscal Court, including themselves, and Dr. T. M. Dorsey for sum of $86.10. The basis of the suit lies in the allegation that during the absence of Dr. Le-wellyn Sparks, jail physician, on his vacation his duties at the jail were discharged by Dr. Dorsey and that at the last meeting of the Fiscal Court his claim for services was allowed and paid in the sum named.

DAVIES'S SCHOOLS

The Observer Takes a Trip With a Camera.

AS BLEAK AS A CATTLE BARN

Schoolhouse For White Pupils a "Crying Shame" and Those For Colored Children Almost Beyond the Flight of Imagination.

Simply to show that these conditions, these same wretched school conditions are common all over the state I went to Davies county, in the western part of Kentucky. This is another of those old, rich communities that were luxurious and prosperous long before the civil war, and it is therefore able to build and equip comfortable schools for all of the children within its borders. Out in what is known as the—but I must not show pictures and tell names at the same time—where corn, tobacco, hay and wheat are grown in perfection, I discovered a poor little school building that was almost ready to go to pieces. Its front looked as if the children had been extra fed or kindling during the cold weather for their old battered drum store. I am glad to be able to say that almost ready to go to pieces. This new building is soon to replace this one, and it is high time, for the county superintendent said:

"It's a shame, a crying shame, I know it and feel it all the time, so do any number of other superintendents all over the state. But what can we do when the money isn't there? I've said over and over again, 'I want to school like that one, got my education, all I ever had, and what was good enough for me to be good enough for my own children, I reckon.'"

We went inside the old shack, and the county superintendent asked me to look at the room, and I placed a few desecrated of a pattern long out of date. Then he said:

"What kind of work can you get out of 'em when it's so much worse than they are used to at home? Might as well, isn't it? But that isn't the real tough part of it. I came out here during a sudden cold snap last winter to see how they could heat the school. You'll notice they have a piece of an old stove in the middle of the room and there is no protector about it to distribute the heat. I made the child who was sitting next to the stove move his seat, and I placed a thermometer where he had been sitting, busy with his lessons. THE MERCURY RACED UP TO 110 DEGREES. I took the same thermometer and hung it against the far wall of the wind shaken house. IT DROPPED TO SIXTY-SEVEN DEGREES. No child could do real mental work with this difference in temperature in the schoolroom, and there was grave danger for the children physically." If the white schools in old Kentucky are bad the negro schools in many localities are almost beyond the flight of imagination. At a small village in this corner of Davies I ran across a very poor one, not any worse than others I had seen, but it was rather peculiar in its style of architecture. The windows were broken, the door unlocked and partly ajar, the front steps entirely gone, and the fence that had once separated the building from the roadway had disappeared except for some lonely pieces of posts. On pushing open the loose door I saw a bleak interior, with trash covering a badly warped floor. The room contained a rusty stove, overflowing ashes on to the floor, and two rickety benches made of undressed lumber. The walls of the room were made of undressed siding nailed to studding and stripped. There had never been any inner wall of plaster or ceiling to keep out the cold. IT WAS AS BLEAK AS A CATTLE BARN. Is it any wonder that illiterate stalks a menacing figure about the old state of "the dark and bloody ground?"

To assist in the strong campaign necessary for the development of the educational movement buttons bearing the inscription "My $ for improving Kentucky schools" are to be sold by the educational committee in Louisville.

LEGAL BLUNDERS.

A Quaker Decree of Divorce Issued by a Paris Court.

Some years ago, it is said, a legal blunder of a most extraordinary character was committed in one of the divorce trials in Paris. By some misapprehension on the part of the presiding judge, whose papers and muddled head confused, he actually mistook the name of an advocate who had been engaged to prepare a petition for the name of one petitioner himself and in granting and signing the decree of dissolution of the marriage of the petitioner unwittingly substituted the advocate's name for the petitioner's and thus divorced the husband from his wife instead of granting the prayer for release of the advocate's client. As the lawyer had no desire for separation from his wife and as there was no process for annulling an absolute decree of divorce, even to meet such a remarkable case, it became necessary through this judicial error, a very severe one, was actually in execution before the error was discovered.—New York Press.

An somewhat similar error was committed in the English court of chancery. There had been a litigation over some property, which was held by one party, and called by a lawyer to secure his spouse without delay, and this he did. In the meantime, however, the judge on an order issued for the summing up, not of the guilty party, but of the claimant of the same surname, and the order, a very severe one, was actually in execution before the error was discovered.—New York Press.

BOOKS IN OLD ROME.

Trained Slave Copyists Turned Them Out Quick and Cheap.

There were in Augustan Rome established publishing houses which not only turned out large numbers of books, but many editions of them and at an incredibly small price. That their arrangements were businesslike may be inferred from the testimony of Horace. He relates that when an ancient manuscript was brought to the publishers they shipped the entire edition of his works to the provinces, and if he still failed as a writer they made arrangements to bring them back again and sell them as paper to the pastry and spice shops.

One great firm in Rome had over 20,000 trained slave copyists, and their work was swift and cheap, for Martial writes that they had ready in the office a thousand copies of his "Epigrams" in just one hour, to be sold at 10 cents a copy. The exceedingly large reading public which all this industry produced was the cause of the growing, and one may assume that Rome had long been a city of readers. Atticus, the publisher of Cicero, had a great many modern methods in the conduct of his business, and the fact that Caesar's "Commentaries" were very quickly dispatched to the outposts of civilization shows that the machinery of distribution was also well organized. Thus we may conclude that the advance of the public department was in good shape.—Bookman.

Husky Dogs of Labrador.

All along the coast at every Eskimo encampment and about the cabins of the liveries are numbers of husky dogs. In winter these animals pull the sledges and form the sole means of travel or communication from settlement to settlement. During the summer they are not fed by their owners, but are left to seek their sustenance as best they can; hence the hungry hounds range the land near the coast and add to the problems of Labrador, as they permit no creature to live that they can pull down. If a hare or a rabbit is turned out to grass overnight only its bare bones would be found in the morning. Even to human beings they are sometimes dangerous when night begins to fall, and on occasion when hard driven by hunger they have been known to attack children in the day. Considering they are hardly ever fed in the summer, one only wonders that there are not more ill deeds to do to their account.—Wide World Magazine.

A Tramp's Story.

"You say you were once the editor of a newspaper?" "Yes, lady, and it was a very bright little sheet, if I do say it." "How does it happen, then, that you are forced to ask at back doors for meals?"

"It is merely a case of the irony of fate. I had a printer who was near-sighted, and one afternoon when he made up the paper he got a wedding notice and a murder trial mixed, so that after describing the costume of the bride it said the condemned man almost collapsed when sentence was pronounced."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Way to Do It.

Mrs. Binks—The people in the next suit to ours are awfully annoying. They actually pound on the wall every time our Mamie sings. I wish we knew of some way to drive them out of the flat. "Why not have Mamie keep on singing?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Hard Work.

"A mounted policeman must have a hard time." "How so?" "It can't be an easy matter to sleep on horseback."—Judge.

HIS GIRL FRIENDS.

Mark Twain Dearly Loved Children as Playmates.

THE ANGEL FISH SOCIETY.

A Delightful and Touching Story About Little Margaret, One of Its Members, and the General Humorous—A Pretty Compact and a Quaint Letter.

Like many another great man, Mark Twain was fond of children. He never outgrew childhood, and he always chose young playmates where they were to be found. He formed curious societies of these girl friends. Back in the nineties, when he was living in Europe, he created a club which was to consist of one only one girl in each country of the globe, the duty of each member being to write occasionally to the chief officer, who faithfully replied to these random and far flung messages. Of course these little girls were swept into womanhood presently, but even to the last years of his life the member who signed herself "France" remained faithful to the law.

Another club of girls, little girls, became one of his interests during his final years. It had its beginning in Bermuda during one of his frequent visits to those happy islands. It was called the Angel Fish club, after a gorgeous swimmer these islands. Each member had to give to each member an angel fish pin as a society badge. It was a successful club, and on his return to America he elected other members enough to make twelve in all.

His home at Redding, Conn., Storm, Field, had been originally named "The Angel Fish Inn" and he had many of his headquarters here. Members with their parents visited him there, and the billiard room, where the "fishes" were likely to spend most of their time knocking the balls about, under the chief member's instruction, was called the Aquarium, and gay prints of many Bermuda fishes were hung along the walls to carry out the idea. Each member had the privilege of selecting one of these as her patron fish and of identifying it by her name.

It was in Bermuda one day when he was walking along the beach with one of his angel fish members that he picked up a small iridescent double shell delicately binged together. He separated it and handed his companion half. "You will be going away from me pretty soon, Margaret," he said, "and growing up, and I won't know you any more. I shall see a great many Margarets, and now and then one of them will say she is my Margaret, but I will say, 'No, you resemble my Margaret, but you are bigger than my Margaret, and I can't be sure.' Then I will take out this shell and I will say, 'If you are really my Margaret you will have the other half of this shell and it will fit exactly.' Then if she has the shell and it fits I shall know that it is really my Margaret, no matter how many Margarets there come by or how much older she has grown."

All this he said very gravely and earnestly, and the little girl took the shell thoughtfully and promised to keep it always. Next morning when she came running up to meet him on the hotel veranda he looked at her questioning.

"You look like Margaret," he said, "but I can't be sure. If you are really my Margaret you will have a shell I gave her once—the mate to this one." He got no further. The tall man was promptly produced, and it fitted exactly. He returned to America, and somewhat later Margaret received a letter—the one of the pretty letters he was always writing to children. In it he said:

I am always making mistakes. When I was in New York six weeks ago I was on a corner of Fifth avenue and saw a small girl—not a big one—start across the street. I saw her and I exclaimed to myself joyfully, "That is certainly my Margaret!" I rushed to meet her. But as she came nearer I began to doubt and said to myself, "It's a Margaret, but it's plain dressed, but I'm half afraid it is somebody else's." So when I passed her I said to myself, "She can't help but see it. Dear, she only glanced at it and passed on. I wondered if she could have overlooked it. It seemed best to find out, so I turned and followed and caught up with her and said deferentially, "Dear Miss, I already know your first name but the look of you, but would you mind telling me your other one?" She was vexed and said, "I don't know, I don't know your name by your looks, and I'd like you to shut yourself up with pen and ink and write some more rubbish. I am surprised that they allow you to run at large. You are likely to get run over by a Jeweler and have your nose cut off. What an idea to run about any corner on Fifth avenue. But I didn't mind. I didn't let on to perceive you were a cultured man. She was from the country, of course, and didn't know what a comical blunder she was making.

Margaret, with her mother, called when they returned to America. When the cards were brought to him he looked at hers and said:

"Well, the young lady, her name seems familiar, but I can't be sure it's my Margaret, without a certain token which she is supposed to carry as a proof." The shell came up without delay. He took the two halves now in his Jeweler and had them set in gold as charms. One of these Margaret wore on a ribbon about her neck, and the other he kept in his watch chain, where it remained till he died. What a sweet fancy it was!

He spent the last months of his life in Bermuda in the home of one of his angel fish, Helen Allen, daughter of the American vice consul there. She was his last companion, and it will be her lifelong happy memory that she brightened and comforted his final days—Albert Bigelow Paine in Ladies' World.

More Large Potatoes.

J. C. Bruce, the well known contractor and farmer, of the Swamp College neighborhood, and E. R. Davis, a well-to-do farmer of Dry Ridge, brought The Jeffersonian several nice Irish potatoes this week, and from the size of the potatoes we are led to believe that Jefferson county growers are decidedly in the lead of all others. They were so large we were actually afraid to weigh them for fear of breaking the scales. If you have raised a crop worth mentioning let us hear from you. Our first crop this year was a failure but the second crop is said to be the best ever raised. As they are selling for such good prices this means money for the growers.

LETTER FROM CHINA

BY DRUSIE R. MALOTT.

Nanking, China, Sept. 13, 1911.—Dear ones at home: We reached Shanghai Saturday, Sept. 2nd, after an ocean voyage of twenty-four days. The sea was quite rough between Kobe and Nagasaki and Shanghai, but the angry waves did not affect this good sailor in the least.

Just before we passed along the coast of Japan, there had been a severe earthquake; also a number of typhoons between Japan and China and along the coast of both countries. I wish I could give you a glimpse of Shanghai. It has a very large foreign settlement, which is quite a modern city. One can lay almost anywhere and it is willing to pay the price. There is a very promising street car service. Several automobiles passed us, and a good many carriages. And, of course, there were the sedan chairs, but most of the people use the two-wheeled rickshaws, pulled by a man.

You would have been interested in the trip by train from Shanghai, over a recently built road. The coaches were quite plain with wooden seats, but the food is excellent. We ate on the train in real "American" fashion. The food is cooked in one end of the coach, so far as I could see. At least, it was brought from there by the waiter. You may have a full meal of five or six courses for $1.25. (about $2.00 U. S. value.) As we were not due in Nanking until after dark and my friends were not expecting me, I had a supper of chicken, green peas, bread, butter and coffee for the equivalent of about $2.00 U. S. money. On an American dining car it would probably have cost $5.

Our route took us through some scenery, which was not very beautiful. There were many high mountains in the distance and hills all around us; and many green fields where the land was high enough to escape the flood waters. The water kept increasing as we journeyed toward Nanking. The little streams soon gave place to rivers, and the paddies to lakes, until almost all the country seemed to be large sheets of water. It certainly looked very picturesque and beautiful, but, oh, it means so much suffering. I could see that many of the little cabins were surrounded by water; sometimes the water just missed coming to the door, and frequently it seemed to be quite high in the house. It was awful. On the high places and ridges were many temporary huts, made of mats or straw or anything that could be made into a shelter for the unfortunate ones who are flooded out of their homes.

We hear that conditions are even worse still further up the country. Even here in Nanking it is heart-breaking. One of Miss Lyon's school girls said the other day, "We are living on the table at our house; at night we stay on the bed, and in the daytime we all sit on the table, for our house is full of water." Another woman was telling me that in her house toward the river the water comes up several feet on her table legs, nearly to the top of the table. A good many government schools and some of the mission schools were not able to open this week because the buildings had water on the floors. Of course, the water is worse in the lower part of the city, down by the river. It comes up to the floor of the baggage car on the train. One of the missionaries found the lower part of her trunk quite wet from the water in the baggage car as the train waded its way through that part of the city.

Some of the missionaries brought word from Wuhu that conditions there are even worse. Many are dying of starvation. The country people are not able to bring in provisions and the city people cannot get around in the water. Our F. C. M. school in the higher part of the city seems to be the only one that has been open.

The river trip from Lu Chow usually takes about three days in best weather, but when some of the Christians started out from there to attend the Bible Institute here last week, they were a week on the way. They reported that one village of about a thousand inhabitants seemed to be completely swept away, and a big lake of water stands in its place. Another small village seemed to be destroyed.

Some of the missionaries were out in a skiff and saw a woman on her house-top, crying to be rescued. They tried for a long while to get their skiff up to the house to get her down, but could not succeed. No doubt further efforts were afterward made. We heard that many children and women are on house-tops and hills and little islands, begging to be rescued. Some of the missionaries and Chinese are planning to send out rescue boats; in fact, some are already out.

A great many natives who fled to the mountains to escape the water are now starving to death because they cannot get any supplies on the mountains. Of course, where the land is under water, the crops are ruined. This means that there will doubtless be another famine, perhaps more severe than that of last spring, in a large district around here. And many of the refugees will wander as far as our district in Honan where conditions are better, so we will not doubt have plenty of relief work to do there when I reach home. The missionaries and some of the Chinese are already getting busy, preparing for relief work, but it is hard to do much until the waters go down some. In a meeting which I attended last Sunday in our Chinese church here, the native pastor made a most touching appeal for contributions for relief work in this city of Nanking. He was dead in earnest. Some of these poor Chinese responded quite nobly, though they could ill afford it.

Now, do not worry about me. We are all quite safe and do not lack for provision and are not in the least danger. I am spending several weeks with our missionaries here in Nanking. We are in the higher part of the city and our compound is quite dry. We have had a good many showers since I have been here, and also some very lovely sunshine. I should have said that the water seems to have come from the mountains, further inland, where there was much rain during the summer, thus overflowing the streams and river.

Will you not pray and work for China and her needy souls every where.

THE SULLIVAN SALE.

The Duroc sale held by Sam Sullivan and Son, J. W. Sullivan, G. B. Sullivan and J. C. McNeal at Taylorsville, Ky., on October 19, drew a large crowd of farmers and breeders from Spencer, Shelby, Anderson, Nelson and Boyle counties, and satisfactory prices were paid. The offering consisted principally of spring boars and gilts, with a few fall gilts and three sows in fine breeding condition.

They were highly complimented on the nice arrangements for the entertainment of the large number of visitors and it was well said that the consignors did not do things by halves. All stock sold will make good and they wish to thank their many friends and customers for their attendance, and hope to see them at their next annual sale in 1912.

Fifty-five head were offered besides twenty pigs at side of dam. The late spring and summer gilts sold for from $10 to $14, while older stock brought from $20 to $54. Mr. J. W. Sullivan did not sell his farm, but will sell it privately. The Jersey cows sold well, bringing $60, $61, $66, and call $88; and so on, up to $10 for aged and young heifers brought $20 to $36.—Farmers Home Journal.

I honestly believe it's the best throat and lung medicine that's made." Easy to prove he's right. Get a trial bottle free, or regular 50c or $1.00 bottle. Guaranteed by all druggists.

"The Man From Home."

No play of recent years has made such a universal appeal to the American public as has the American drama by Booth Tarkenton and Harry Leon Wilson, "The Man From Home," which is being played at the Shubert Masonic, in Louisville all this week. While the whole atmosphere of the play abounds with Italian suggestion and in fact every scene is laid in that country, the spirit of the play is purely American. The principal character, Daniel Voorhees Pike, a plain lawyer from Kokomo, Ind., played by William Fodge, 342 times in Chicago and 500 times at the Astor Theatre New York, as well as twenty-seven consecutive weeks in Boston and eighteen in Philadelphia, is a virile type of the American man of business, calm and imperious under the stress of abnormal conditions, that he cannot fail to appeal to the entirety of the theatre-goers. Liebler & Co. the managers, have cast the play with their usual prodigality, and the scenic arrangements are of unusual excellence. The Chicago engagement was of such magnitude that all records hitherto held by any class of production dropped into the shade by over 50 per cent, and its success was so great that it became necessary to cease outright a famous theatre to continue the run beyond the original contract. In New York all attendance records were broken. The indications are that its success throughout the country will be as great as it enjoyed in the four cities mentioned. Throughout it is the embodiment of true, clean, wholesome Americanism. Matinee on Saturday.

The Youth's Companion in 1912.

No other paper is quite like The Youth's Companion. It is taken in half a million homes where the choice of reading is made with as much care as the choice of friends. It entertains, it satisfies, it keeps zest for thrilling adventure, it is rich in wit and humor, and all the while its purpose is to be to every reader a help onward—never a drag backward.

Among the contributors to the 1912 volume will be General Baden-Powell, the defender of Mafeking and founder of the Boy Scouts, Walter Camp, the celebrated football coach, Hudson Maxim, the inventor of high explosives, Governor Harmon of Ohio, Percival Lowell, the astronomer, Jacob A. Riss, Martin Harland, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Rev. Francis E. Clark, founder of the Society of Christian Endeavor, etc., etc. The serial stories alone, which will follow one another the year through will be worth $1.50 each when published in book form. By subscribing to The Companion you get them all and 250 other complete stories for $1.75, and the Articles, Miscellany, Home Page, City Pages, Page, etc., put in for good measure. Now is the time to subscribe, sending $1.75 for the 52 weekly issues of the new volume, for on January 1, 1912, the subscription price will be advanced to $2.00.

Do not forget that the new subscribers for 1912 receives free The Companion's Calendar for 1912, lithographed in ten colors and gold, and also the issues of the remaining weeks of 1911 free from the time the subscription is received.

THE WHITE SCHOOL.

It Looked Like the Negro School, but This Was a Mistake. During one of my drives of exploration I passed a school in Spencer county, about thirty-five miles east of Louisville. At first sight I was sure I had stumbled upon a typical negro school, but as I went about the yard with my camera a farmer who lived near by came over to see what I was doing.

"How long has this colored school been here?" I asked. "I don't know how long it's been built. All I know is that it wasn't no ways new."

THE ANCIENT WRECK WITH ITS SAGGING FLOOR.

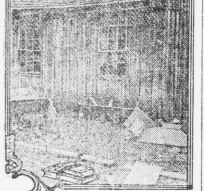

When I moved into this neighborhood thirty years ago could I say, "When was it pointed out?" "Pointed out?" He laughed good naturedly as he took a fresh chew of his twist. "Pointed out? Why it ain't never had no point on it that I ever see or heard of."

I looked at the ancient wreck, with its sagging floor, its scattered roof about the door where there should have been a walk, then my glance fell upon a new, sturdy long distance telephone pole which stood close to one corner of the building. I walked up and, playing my hand against it, wailed and fell to thinking. Suddenly the busy humming of the wires seemed to be whispering indignantly to the broken house. "Wake up! Wake up! We are not asleep today! We are in the hurry and scurry of twentieth century! Wake up and join the procession!"

On the far side of the school I stumbled upon some old fashioned hand made desks and at once asked my farmer friends where they had come from.

"Why, they come out of the school there, of course. The children used 'em until this year, when they put in some new ones."

My next search was for the closets. I knew there was no coal house on the premises, for the old doctors were piled

"THIS HERE IS A PAUPER SCHOOL," upon the top of the winter's supply of coal. I was unable to find even the remains of any closet, so I again questioned my former friend.

"They ain't never had none since I been in the neighborhood!"

"Haven't got any closets at all?" I exclaimed in amazement. "How can your teachers handle a school without closets?"

The man hesitated a moment, shifted his quid to the other side of his jaw and answered quietly:

"Gawd knows, I don't."

"How do you happen to have such a poor schoolhouse in this part of the county—the land looks pretty good?"

"You see, this here is a pauper school."

I pretended not to understand him fully, so I asked:

"Mr. that's too bad. I had no idea that the farmers up here on the head waters of Salt river were so poor. You haven't even got a church in the neighborhood, then?"

"Oh, yes! We've got a mighty nice brand new church a mile out the pike from here."

"Strike built that, too?" I suggested.

"Why, no; the folks all clipped in and built it," he explained carefully.

"We ain't poor folks at all!"

"Why couldn't you folks chip in and do something for this old tumble-down school?" I asked.

"We could have done it, couldn't we?" he exclaimed. "I reckon we just never thought about it that way."

Education Pays.

The state of Kansas, though less than sixty years old, has excellent schools, and her taxable property has increased at the rate of $120,000,000 annually during the past ten years, a total increase of $120,000,000 in a decade. This is twice the total assessment of Kentucky.

The valuation of real property in Kentucky is $487,835,225. In Kansas the same class of property is valued at $1,578,048,700.

The valuation of personal property in Kentucky was $142,313,000, while in Kansas it was $890,643,000. The total assessed valuation in Kentucky was $644,489,000 and in Kansas $2,468,691,800.

The above figures are from the World Almanac for 1910.

ZEBRAS IN AFRICA.

They Are a Fearful Pest and a Menace to Civilization. Zebras in Africa are a nuisance and a menace to civilization, according to John T. McCutcheon in "Hunting Adventures in the Big Game Country."

He says: "Then there's the ubiquitous zebra, almost as numerous as the kongoni. You see vast herds of zebras at many places along the railway, and there after, as you roam about the level spots of east Africa, you are always running into herds of them. At first the sight of a herd of zebras is a surprise, for you have been accustomed to seeing them in the small numbers found in captivity. It is a source of passing wonder that these rare animals should be roaming about the suburbs of towns in hundreds lots. You decide that it would be a shame to shoot a zebra and determine not to join in this heartless slaughter."

Later on your sentiments will undergo a change. Everybody will tell you that the zebra is a fearful pest and must be exterminated if civilization and progress are to continue. The zebra is absolutely useless, and efforts to domesticate him have been without good results. He stamps over the plains, breaks down fences, tears up the cultivated fields and really fulfills no mission in life save that of supplying the lions with food. As long as the zebra stays the lions will be there, but the settlers say that the lions are even preferable to the zebras.

Under the old game ordinance expiring December 15, 1909, a sportsman was allowed two zebras under his license. Under the new one he is allowed twenty. That reveals the attitude of east Africa toward the jaunty little striped pony.

THE TONIC OF VICTORY.

Army Surgeons Say It Almost as an Anesthetic.

Bonnets, a French army surgeon, writes in the Presse Medicale of the extraordinary influence of the tonic of operation manifested by the soldiers of Napoleon while the great conqueror was sweeping victoriously over Europe. The defeated soldier is full of imaginary terrors, subject to panic, madness and treason, the conqueror, on the other hand, is intoxicated with success, says the New York Medical Journal. Nothing, not even the morbid microbe, can resist troops who believe themselves to be invincible.

Victory is the most powerful of restoratives and deepest of anesthetics. Legions members of the old guard crowded into an ambulance would at sight of the emperor rise on their stumps to salute him. After Eylau Larrey operated uninterrupted for thirty-six hours, and he reports how his soldiers seemed unconscious of their own troubles, lost in thought of the glory of their leader, and, maimed as they were, lending their best aid to fellow-victims.

At Borodino Larrey disarticulated the shoulder of a colonel, who immediately set out for France on foot, where he arrived after three months walking.

After fortifying the Borodino, a river in Russia, General Zayonchek, seventy-five years old, had his kneecap shattered by a bullet. Amputation was performed in three minutes in a violent snowstorm and in bitterly cold weather, yet the white-haired officer was placed in a sledge and taken to Vilna, where he died at the age of eighty-six years. Many similar anecdotes are told by our civil war veterans.

Stupid Fish.

Professor Harold Russell, the London zoologist, will have none of the popular yarns about the wonderful things fish will do when put to it. He says they are deaf, dumb and virtually color blind. When the calcareous stones are taken out of the ears of fish they lose all sense of equilibrium and roll about as if crazy. Most fish hunt their food by only defective sight, but the eels live by mere olfactory smell. A conger eel with which Professor Russell experimented decorated with the same avidity fish doled with cheese, anchovy, capsaun spirits, turpentine and iodoform.

Where We Aim.

William Dean Howells in one of his talks about literature said: "Good literature is always condemned on its first appearance. That is because, being original, it is new and strange. Shelley's work was bitterly condemned at first. So was Coleridge's. So was Wordsworth's. So was Stephen Crane's." Mr. Howells paused, then added impressively, "Stones are only thrown at those trees which are heavy with fruit."

The Fertile Rock.

Gibraltar is often called a barren rock, yet it has a species of indigenous flowering plants. Castor oil plants, daturas and daphnes attain the dignity of trees and geraniums and heliotropes are portions of the ledge. These floral delights often conceal cannon and other armaments. The few snakes that are found are small and harmless. Lizards several inches long are often seen.

Oh!

"The little son of the hostess is mighty ugly, isn't he?" "Do you think so?" "He certainly doesn't take after his mother. Must look like his father." "His mother says he does. I'm his father."—Houston Post.

Dangers are light if they once seem light, and more dangers have deceived men than forced them.—Bacon.
